US8677116B1	Coburn Supply's website "coburns.com" ("The accused instrumentality") 1. A method of using a computer system to authenticate a user seeking to conduct at least one interaction with a secured capability provided by a computer, the method comprising: The accused instrumentality practices a method of using a computer system (e.g., authentication server of the accused instrumentality, etc.) to authenticate a user seeking to conduct at least one interaction (e.g., account login, product search, etc.) with a secured capability provided by a computer (e.g., server of the accused instrumentality). As shown, the website of the accused instrumentality practices providing secure connection with a user's device (electronic device of the user) through HTTPS connections. This is achieved by an authentication server (a computer system) authenticating users seeking to perform actions such as account login, product search, etc., (interactions) ensuring that interactions with secured features are protected from unauthorized access.  https://www.coburns.com/ achieved by an authentication server (a computer system) authenticating users seeking to perform actions such as account login, product search, etc., (interactions) ensuring that interactions with secured features are protected from unauthorized access. The server sends a response to set `AspNetCore.Identity.Application` value, which is set by the user device.

As shown, the `AspNetCore.Identity.Application` token set by the end device is reused in all further communications with the server. The `AspNetCore.Identity.Application` token also mentions a Max-Age (e.g., until session ends) for the token, indicating that it can be reused for a finite period.
